

EDEN BRENT, Getaway Blues, June 21 2024

Liner Notes

Last summer my husband Bob and I were invited to a party in London, his hometown. We hadn't traveled there together since we married and he moved to Mississippi. The trip was the perfect occasion to "put the band back together" to make this album. Bob phoned his old band mates, guitarist Rob Updegraff and drummer Pat Levett from The Coalminers, and we booked two full days with Ben Lamdin at Fish Factory Studio.

The album is recorded live, so overdubs are minimal. We did manage a couple of keyboard and vocal retakes with our mixing engineer, Matt Ross-Spang at Southern Grooves in Memphis, but for the most part, what you hear are four people jamming on nine original blues songs while the tape rolls. Many thanks to everyone who helped make this record my absolute favorite and especially the Macraes for the invitation that started it all. I hope you love it!
